The Giant Despair.

One of the most horrible things about the nervous diseases to which women are peculiarly subject is the sense of overwhelming despair which they bring upon the mind. A woman's mental condition is directly and powerfully affected by any ailment of the delicate, special organs of her sex. Such a difficulty not only racks her body with pain and suffering but burdens her with mental anguish which words can hardly describe. Thousands of women have had a similar experience to that of Mrs. E. H. Williams, of Westport, Oldham Co., Ky., in which the use of Dr. Pierce's wonderful "Favorite Prescription," by imparting health and strength to the feminine organism, has not only restored complete vigor and capacity to the bodily powers but has also given renewed brightness and buoyancy of spirit. "I suffered for over a year," says Mrs. Williams, "with indigestion and nervous prostration. I was unable to eat or sleep. I tried several physicians, but they only helped me for a short time. A friend advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Pelle's' I commenced taking the medicines last May. Took three bottles of the 'Favorite Prescription,' three of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and three vials of the 'Pelle's,' and am now feeling better than I have for two years. Have a good appetite, sleep well, and do not suffer from indigestion or nervousness. I have gained seven and a half pounds since taking these medicines. I have recommended Dr. Pierce's medicine to several ladies, one of whom is now taking it and is being greatly benefited."

MOONLIGHT IN MUSIC.

Story of How Beethoven Created His Wonderful Sonata.

Beethoven's famous composition, the "Moonlight Sonata," is said to have been composed under the following circumstances:

One evening, as Beethoven and a friend were hurrying through the streets of Bonn, they heard the familiar notes of the "Sonata in F." Something in the musician's touch attracted the attention of Beethoven, and he stopped and listened. Suddenly the music stopped, and the despairing words of the musician came to them through the open window, "Oh, if I could but hear some really good musician play this wonderful piece!" and the words ended in a sob.

"Let us go in," said Beethoven. They entered and found the player a young girl, poor and blind. Beethoven sat down at the old harpsichord and played as he had never played before. His listeners were spellbound. "Tell us," they begged, "who are you?" For answer he played the opening bars in the "Sonata in F." "It is Beethoven!" they exclaimed in awe and admiration. Suddenly the candle flickered and went out. Beethoven ceased playing and bowed his head upon his hand. His friend threw open the shutters. A flood of beautiful moonlight entered the room. Its transfiguring light touched upon the poor old instrument and rested upon the noble figure bowed before it. The profound silence was broken at last by the musician, who said: "Listen! I will improvise a sonata to the moonlight." Then was created this wonderful sonata, beginning in a sad, tender movement, the embodiment in sound of the gentle moonlight transfiguring and glorifying the dark earth.

Suddenly the music ceased, and with a brief farewell Beethoven hurried home to put upon paper this famous composition.—Philadelphia Saturday Post.

A REALISTIC ACT.

An Amusing Story of Jefferson as Rip Van Winkle.

While he was playing Rip Van Winkle at Chicago Jefferson once went to the theater very much exhausted by a long day's fishing on the lake. As the curtain rose on the third act it disclosed the white haired Rip still deep in his 20 years' nap. Five, 10, 20 minutes passed and he did not awaken. The audience began to get impatient and the prompter uneasy.

The great actor doubtless knew what he was about, but this was carrying the realistic business too far. The fact was that all this time Jefferson was really sleeping the sleep of the just, or rather of the fisherman who had sat eight hours in the sun. Finally the gallery became uproarious, and one of the "gods" wanted to know if there was going to be "10 years more of this snooze business!" At this point Jefferson began to snore. This decided the prompter, who opened a small trap beneath the stage and began to prod Rip from below. The fagged comedian fumbled in his pocket for an imaginary railway ticket and muttered drowsily, "Going right through, 'ductor."

At this entirely new reading the audience was transfixed with amazement, when all at once Jefferson sat up with a loud shriek, evidently in agony. The exasperated prompter had "jabbed" him with a pin. Consciousness of the situation came to him and the play went on after that with a rush.—Philadelphia Post.

There was only an edition of 750 of Herbert Spencer's "Social Statics." It took 14 years to sell. Of the "Principles of Psychology," also brought out at the author's cost, only 650 were sold in 12 1/2 years. The first series of essays, 500 copies, took 10 1/2 years.

ROMAN WEALTH AND WASTE

Pearls Dissolved in Wine and a Relay of Dinners For Mark Antony.

E. H. House, writing on "Bright Sides of History" in St. Nicholas, tells this story of ancient extravagance:

"The pearl which Cleopatra drank to Antony's health was valued at nearly $400,000, so at one mouthful she disposed of as much as the cost of Calligula's supper. I suppose that was the most valuable pearl we have any knowledge of. Though Julius Caesar owned one worth $250,000, which he gave to the mother of Brutus—the same Brutus who afterward helped to kill Caesar. Pearls seem to have held out particular temptations to people who took pleasure in wasteful follies, perhaps because no other jewel could be so easily swallowed."

"Cleopatra's prank was not the first of its kind. The same absurdity had been committed by a silly fellow in Rome named Esop—not your favorite fable teller, for he lived centuries earlier, and was a very wise man. The Roman Esop was the son of a rich actor, and, just to make himself talked about, he took a pearl from the sardop of Camilla, the wife of the tyrant Sylla, and, according to writers of that age, drank it in vinegar. I believe that the possibility of dissolving this kind of gem is disputed by many modern authorities, but the ancients appear to have had no doubt on the subject, for the instances recorded by them were numerous and were attested by men of scientific standing. A Japanese naturalist, who has studied pearls minutely, states that he has found them of such various quality and structure that the existence of specimens which might be melted does not seem to him inconceivable. But whether Esop liquefied his pearl or not the performance certainly cost him a sum equivalent to $40,000—quite enough, though nothing in comparison with what Cleopatra squandered. Hers was the wildest piece of extravagance that I can recall."

"It was the fashion to be extravagant then. Mark Antony was not far behind the Egyptian queen in that respect, though his fancy was not for beverages flavored by trinkets. Substantial food was more in his line. A visitor who once went into the kitchen of his palace in Alexandria saw eight wild boars roasting at the same time and thought there must be an immense number of guests expected, but the cook told him only 12 persons would dine that day, and the reason of the extensive preparations was that no one could say exactly when Antony would go to the table. But whenever he gave the signal the meat must be just in proper condition at that moment. So it was the rule to get ready a series of dinners, overlapping one another, you might say, at intervals of 15 or 20 minutes. Only one could be eaten, and the rest were wasted, but the waste did not matter. Antony was never kept waiting, and that, in his opinion, was the thing to be considered."

SHADOWS ON THE WALL

When the room is tidy
Toys are put away,
Eyes are growing sleepy,
Stiles are turning gray,
Comes the children's clamor
As they round me throng:
Fairy lore's exhausted,
Sung each nursery song.
In the mellow lamplight
Hushed their voices all,
While they watch me making
Shadows on the wall!

Through the happy silence
Rings their laughter low
As upon the wall there
Shadows come and go.
Nurse, unseen, unheeded,
Watches from the door,
Whilst the children's voices
Plead for just one more!

One by one they leave me
Till I sit alone,
Seeing in the twilight
Shadows of my own,
Long forgotten fancies,
Dreams in olden guise,
Till from heart to eyelids
Tears, unbidden, rise.
Happy, happy children!
Time has joys for all;
Only some are fleeting
Shadows on the wall!

MY LADY NICOTINE.

The Alleged Effects of Tobacco and Its Enormous Consumption.

Probably no pleasure of life has had its praises so much sung as smoking. Here is the other side. Doctors say tobacco used in excess produces:

Palpitation of the heart, muscular tremblings, weakness and paralysis of the legs, dizziness of the head, noises in the ears, cold perspiration all over the body, colicky pains in the stomach, inability to exert the mind, congested and sore throat, burning of the tongue, dry and parched mouth, tartar and blackness of the teeth, confusion of sight, catarrh of the stomach, catarrh of the throat and nose, sallow complexion, very bad dyspepsia, lopsided mouth, nervous anxiety, cancer of the lips, diminished appetite, pale and anemic gums, loss of memory, omission of every fifth pulse beat, ruin of the will power, irritability of temper, extreme and incurable melancholy, restlessness and sleeplessness, blindness and deafness, apoplexy and paralysis, convulsions and death.

In the case of children it stunts their growth, when a person is consumptive it hastens his death, when the heart is weak it almost completely stops the beating, when you have a cough tobacco keeps it going for weeks, and it interferes with singing and swallowing.

Yet about 1,500,000,000 pounds of it are smoked every year.—New York World.

Worthy of Whistler.

As an artist Jack Gamble is considered as independent as he is successful. He possesses an unlimited quantity of candor, upon the expression of which he places no restraint. He is much liked notwithstanding, and was not long ago offered a commission to paint the portrait of a certain wealthy man, whose features are more remarkable for their bloom than for their refinement. Jack critically scanned the broad features of his proposed subject.

"Upon one condition will I paint you," he declared dramatically.

"What?" gasped the amazed Croesus, speechless at the effrontery of this poverty stricken artist.

"Yes," pursued Gamble, with easy grace. "Upon condition that I shall be allowed to put in a little intelligence."

And the funny part of it was that Jack got the commission.—San Francisco News Letter.

PURITY OF ELECTIONS LAW.

Assemblyman McGowan's bill for the repeal of the purity of elections law was defeated in the Assembly on Wednesday by a vote of 15 to 14. The JOURNAL'S Carson correspondent says the bill caused a lively debate and the explanation of votes and relation of experiences were so widely different as to cause considerable amusement. It is gratifying that the repealing bill was defeated even by so small a majority, for it is evidence that a majority of the lower house have yet some regard for the purity of the ballot and the decencies of elections which it cannot be denied the purity of elections law has to a considerable extent maintained, since it went into operation. It has at least put a stop to the glaring and barefaced corruption which prevailed on election days before the enactment of the law. It has surprised the public purchase and sale of votes and the establishment of "slaughter pens," where the sell-out voters could go and receive his five or ten dollar piece with instructions how to make out his ballot so as to earn his money.

The argument that the law is an incentive to perjury is too idle and nonsensical to merit the slightest consideration, for the same may be as properly argued against any statute which provides a penalty for crime, or which requires a public officer to make, under oath, an official report of the receipts and expenditures of his office at the end of every quarter, and entails a penalty for false reports or refusal or neglect to make them at all. The amounts allowed to be expended by candidates under the law is ample for all legitimate purposes, and greater outlays would not gain for a nominee a single honest vote which he would not receive under due and strict observance of the existing statute, which is far more liberal than some stung candidates choose to construe it. Indeed, if the law has a defect it is in furnishing a pretext for parsimoniousness other than an incentive to perjured statements. We will venture the assertion that not one State or county candidate in ten, since the passage of the law, has expended, legitimately, within twenty-five per cent of the amount allowed by the law, or which he could have concluded in his statement without the commission of either moral or legal perjury. The law has effected a beneficial change in election methods since its adoption and, while it has not remedied all of the former evils, it has modified them to such an extent, that its repeal is only desirable to those who either do not understand its provisions, or who would again open the doors to wholesale bribery and unrestricted corruption.

If the law is to be changed at all, it should be so as to include candidates for United States Senator in its provisions. It is unfortunate that such an omission should have occurred in the first place, as it has been clearly proven by the events of the last campaign. If some member would have such an amendment carefully prepared by competent members of the legal profession, and secure its adoption, he would place as strong a safeguard around our election system as is possible to effect by statutory law. In other respects, the act is well enough as it is and should be permitted to remain unchanged.

LOCAL FARES AND FREIGHTS.

Assemblyman Paul of White Pine has introduced a bill for the regulation of fares and freights on all standard gauge railroads passing through the State, fixing passenger rates at 2½ cents per mile for adults and 1½ cents per mile for children between the ages of 10 and 14 years. It fixes the freight rate at 4 cents per ton.

Mr. Wallace pretends to ridicule the measure on the ground that it is in conflict with the interstate commerce law. This has always been the scarecrow used by the Southern Pacific when a Nevada legislature has manifested a disposition to regulate fares and freights within our borders. The JOURNAL is of the opinion, if the members will consult competent legal authority, other than Mr. Wallace, they will ascertain that Nevada has the same right to legislate upon this matter as other States which have done so and whose acts have been sustained by the highest courts in the country. The interstate commerce law regulates fares and freights from points to points in different States, but it does not interfere with State legislatures fixing local rates between points both of which are within their own boundaries. The title of the law itself is proof of this, for otherwise it would not be an "inter-State" law. Local fares and freights are regulated by the legislature in every State through which a transcontinental or interstate road passes, with the exception of Nevada, which, being politically a part of the Southern Pacific system, has not yet come under the general rule.

Passenger fare rates in Nevada are higher than in any other State in the Union, and fifty per cent in excess of most of them. There is no reason for this, except that our legislatures have been under the control of the political agent of the Southern Pacific Company. Probably the present one is no exception, but we trust at least that no sincere and honest representative of the people will be deluded from the performance of his duty by such a shallow device as a pretended legal obstruction in the shape of the interstate commerce law.

RENO PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Report and Honor Rolls for the Month of January, 1899.

To the Board of School Trustees—GENTLEMEN: I herewith respectfully submit my report for the public schools for the month ending January 20, 1899:

The attendance for January was 550. Pupils continue to come in from various localities in this State and California. Each month of the present year has shown an increase over the preceding month and over last year, there being twenty-one more enrolled for January, 1899 than for January, 1898.

The Fifth and Sixth grades have become so crowded that I thought it advisable to refuse further admission to them, turning some away; and, in a few cases for the same reason, I have had to refuse promotion except through the courtesy of the University Training school in receiving such pupils. This condition of affairs would indicate the probable necessity of making provision for an additional teacher next year.

The semi-annual promotions have been made and all pupils are, in consequence, working to better advantage. There is undoubtedly a decided gain in this readjustment of grades in the middle of the year. Pupils are made to realize thereby just where they stand, they are sifted into grades where they may work under better conditions, and are given a fresh start their record beginning anew. Some extra work devolves on the teachers, but as the interests and well-being of the pupils are regarded as of paramount consideration, it is cheerfully done.

Following are the statistical table and the honor rolls:

Meeting at the Court House This Evening.

It is notified in the JOURNAL elsewhere that there will be a meeting this evening at the court house to consider public matters in general and some matters in particular. There will be a proposition before the meeting for its consideration, to establish a woolen mill at Reno. Capital is beginning, after its great scare, to look about for a profitable investment. The timid nature of capital and the shyness of its owners is well understood by the man of average intelligence. Some inducement is usually necessary to have the owner take off his coat and to bring the other from his hiding place to go to work. The question of our willingness and ability to provide the inducement necessary to put capital and its owner to work in Reno merits our consideration in an intelligent business way. We should be equal to any reasonable demand made upon us that will induce capital to seek Reno as a proper place for investment.

DR. STUBBS' AMBITION.

The Able Educator Talks of University Affairs.

A JOURNAL reporter talked with Dr. J. E. Stubbs yesterday concerning the present and future of Nevada's crowning glory, the State University. The doctor has just returned from Carson where he was employed during the past few days in presenting reports to the legislature and also making suggestions for the aid and advancement of the University.

The love the people of Nevada bear for their leading educational institution is shown by the action of their representatives at Carson in passing the University tax bill. In view of the fact that economy in all directions is absolutely necessary in order to place the State on a firm financial basis our representatives realize that it would be fatal to the best interests of the State to prevent development in higher education by failing to render the University the aid its growth demands. The bill was thoroughly considered before being voted upon, both the House and the Senate exacting complete and explicit reports on the University's present condition. The undivided attention given to the reports and the support given the bill after due deliberation and debate indicates their attitude on educational advancement.

In response to a remark about the truthless newspaper rumor concerning his intention of resigning in order to accept a higher position elsewhere, Dr. Stubbs said:

"Nothing could be farther from my intentions, it is truly strange how such stories originate. Only one thing could influence me to sever my connection with the University and that is the positive knowledge that the State is unable and unwilling to assist in the education of its young men and women."

"My one great ambition is to see our State University rank third among the colleges of the west; to see it hold the same position in regard to Berkeley and Stanford as does Amherst to Yale and Princeton. Amherst is not so large as Yale or Princeton, its roster numbers only three or four hundred students, more than this is not allowed, yet when the Amherst graduate stands beside the Yale graduate he feels as well equipped for the work in hand as the Yale man does, and is often the more competent of the two, hence an Amherst diploma goes just as far as one from Yale."

"I would have it so with the University of Nevada. It need not be great in numbers to be of high educational standard. We would have the young men who graduate from its halls feel, as they go forth to work for the State upon whose soil they were reared, 'No men have had better college training than has been given to us by the loyal people of Nevada.'"

RENO, Nev., Jan. 2, 1899.

EDITOR JOURNAL: The attack made upon me by the Nevada City Herald was entirely uncalled for and nothing more or less than a piece of spite work. I owed the aforesaid sheet $3 when I left Nevada City a few days ago, but my indebtedness was covered by orders for job printing, which were collectable on completion of the work. Editor Wadsworth backed out of a bargain he made with me, putting me to a pecuniary loss and much inconvenience and had he finished the job he contracted to do, his money would have been forthcoming from business men whose orders for work I left in his care. As for the merchants with whom I have had dealings in the past none can say but that I have always given them the worth of their money and treated them fair and square. I can refer to the Placer County Leader of Auburn and the Truckee Republican both of which newspapers I have done business with in the past month and they will say that my transactions with them have not been "shady" to say the least.

Truly yours,

GEO. WENTWORTH.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. D. "Was taken with a bad cold which settled upon my lungs; cough set in and finally terminated in Consumption. Four Doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth, I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and colds. I gave it a trial took eight bottles in all. It has cured me, and thank God, I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded.

HENRY ORR DEAD.

A Prominent Citizen Passes Away in San Francisco.

Henry Orr died yesterday in San Francisco. His brother, Thomas Orr, who lives at Truckee, Cal., has come to the city to bring the body to Reno, where Henry requested he should be buried. The body will be brought to Reno to-morrow to be laid in a grave made in the soil of Nevada where the deceased has lived much of his life. Mr. Orr leaves several brothers and other relatives who will mourn his taking off. Mr. Orr was a kind man and a first class citizen. He has done much to develop Truckee valley by bringing upon its soils the water of the Truckee river. The Orr ditch, one of the most useful of the many ditches in the valley, was planned and made by the deceased, and so long as water runs over the bed of the Orr ditch his life and name will have a more lasting and grand monument than any eulogy out in marble column could make. Mr. Orr was 76 years of age last November.

Fine Recital.

Miss Mollie Adelia Brown had many friends and admirers before her appearance last night; she can now number many more. Very rarely is there heard a more liquid and pure soprano than the beautiful voice with which Miss Brown is gifted. Her audience was enchanted with her singing last night. "Ab, Nellie Calma," from Gounod's Romeo et Juliet, was given with excellent expression. Mascagni's "He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not," Sapiro's "Spring" and a very sweet ballad by Tosti, in which she played her own accompaniment, were rendered in an excellent manner.—Los Angeles Herald.

Public Meeting This Evening.

Elsewhere in this issue will be found a call for a public meeting at the Court house this evening. It is signed by the Washoe county legislative delegation, who desire to obtain an expression of the people in reference to matters of interest to the city and county, which they will submit to the meeting for consideration.

The Washoe members are evidently desirous of acting in accordance with the wishes of their constituents in matters of local interest, and it is to be hoped that there will be a large attendance, especially of the business men of the city and county.
